A Daring Exploit of War

Rescue of a Captured Ship from the Pirates, and Killing the Prize Crew

THE FOLLOWING NARRATIVE [illegible] McKinnon, the passenger [illegible] flown [illegible] work was done:

It seems I have been more than [illegible] minutes when I was awakened from a light sleep [illegible] captain's voice, which I knew instantly it could not have been produced by any [illegible] Steadman, Steadman, shall [illegible] No sooner did the truth strike upon my [illegible] I leaped out of bed and, leaving [illegible] the door [illegible] the partition saw the steward [illegible] through the twilight—for he had extinguished the light—in his [illegible] at a [illegible] down toward the second mate's [illegible] also saw at the same [illegible] [illegible] from his berth and [illegible] him [illegible] the blood blinding [illegible] to the floor with a hoarse [illegible] his throat. All this was but the work of a second. The cleaving of the axe, like the flash from a gun preceding the report was followed by a weak, fainter cry, like that of a sick child, and the gurgling in the throat. I knew then that his wound was mortal. Stooping sideways, the steward entered the second mate's cabin and once more swung his axe, but not so effectively.

The mate started up with a "G—d d—n you, don't strike me again, and clutched at the steward's breast, but eluding the wounded man he ran on deck, to where the man lay near the wheelhouse, and keeping his axe behind him demanded "what's all this noise about?" The man who had been aroused by the outcries of the captain and mate, had raised himself upon his elbow and stared at the steward in a half stupid, half fascinating way, not seeing the pistol which Stedding, the man at the helm, had pointed at him for use in case of necessity. As he turned his face toward the steward, the latter drove his weapon home into the base of his skull. Stedding and the steward then tumbled him overboard. He rose on the wave with a hoarse cry, when about two lengths astern, the water having risen him but he must soon have gone down to his long account.

Then the steward came down to the cabin, where I stood, while Stedding stood, pistol in hand, to guard the deck. The captain cried faintly, twice, to me by name. Help me—help me! but he was past help. Another swishing blow of the axe and he did not repeat the cry. Then the steward returned to the second mate's cabin, where seated on a pile of starch boxes, his legs drawn up, and his head between his knees, was the half stupified man. Again and again the axe fell and again the cry, "Don't do that!" fell on my ear each time fainter than the last. Stedding now came down, and the steward and he took the corpse of the captain by the feet, and dragging it up the companion way, tossed it overboard.

Meantime I had got some irons out, hoping to intercede to save bloodshed. Stedding and the steward once more came down and each taking the second mate by the shoulder led him out from the place where he had crouched on the starch boxes. He seemed to walk, with their assistance, as they went up the companion way, but his head lay a pulpy mass upon his shoulder, and a moment after a loud splash alongside told the fate of another of the privateers.

There were three persons on board who knew nothing of all this, the two privateersmen, and Daniel McLeod, one of our sailors, whom I subsequently learned would not join the steward and Stedding in the attempt to recapture the vessel. Handing me his pistol, Stedding went forward and roused Minqui, the South Carolinian a young man of 22 or 23 years of age, from his sleep at the foot of the mainmast and called him aft. Not seeing his comrades when he came into the cabin he became much frightened and begged for life.

The steward told him he would not kill him but iron him, and his fate must depend on his good behavior, he wanted to spill as little blood as possible. He willingly held out his wrists for the irons. They then went to the forecastle and called the other privateer, Dorsey. Upon learning the condition of affairs he begged for his life, which they promised to spare if he would assist in working the ship and be true and faithful, to all of which he agreed.

The steward now took command and the schooner headed for the North with a fair wind. None of us knew anything of navigation, but we trusted to good fortune and the land to enable us to make our course. The South Carolinian was released from irons next morning, and proved a very useful and willing fellow in working the ship. On Friday, the 19th, at 5 o'clock in the morning, we made the land, which became quite distinct by noon, and we kept on our way with good weather, squaring our yards as we went. Of course we had to be watchful.

Two of our hands might turn upon us at any moment, and McLeod was not faithful for three days before we got in he went forward and slept with them in the forecastle. Stedding, Tillman and I managed it so that two of us were on deck all the while, and always aft of the other three. The man on watch carried the two pistols, and the one that slept always kept one eye open, lest we might be attacked. On Sunday morning at 9 o'clock, we got a pilot off Sandy Hook, and soon after hired a tug for $60 to tow us up to New York, where we arrived at 4 P. M. truly thankful for our great deliverance.

The Confessions of a Secessionist

We need go no further than the rewards and missions for evidence of the crimes of Secessionists, or beyond their own denunciations of Treason, to find ample justification for their punishment. Three years ago Jeff Davis declared that he who raised his hand against the Government deserved the execration of mankind, and "committed a crime without a name." The late Vice President of the "New Dahomey," Mr Stephens in a speech delivered at Milledgeville, Georgia on the 14th of December last, paid one of the most eloquent tributes to the beneficence and paternal character of the Federal Government to be found any where. "This Government of our Fathers," said the speaker with all its defects, "COMES NEARER THE OBJECTS OF ALL GOOD GOVERNMENTS THAN ANY OTHER ON THE FACE OF THE EARTH." Warming with his subject he exclaimed — "Where will you go, following the sun in its circuit round the globe, to find a government that so fully protects the liberties of its people and secure to them the blessings we enjoy."

Nor did Mr. Stephens confine himself to "glittering generalities" about the glory of the Federal Union. He descended to facts and arguments to prove that the Union had been especially munificent to the South. Replying to the charge of Toombs that the policy of the Government had been inimical to Southern interests, Mr Stephens said —

"It has been our pride that out of the seventy-two years of the existence of the Government under the Constitution, it has been for sixty years under the control of Southern statesmen. This has secured whatever of prosperity and greatness, growth and development, has marked the country's career during its past history. The Northern masses generally agreed with Southern statesmen in their policy, and sustained them. These were the democracy of that section. Mr. JEFFERSON said they were allies. WASHINGTON's administration lasted eight years. It was Southern, and in the line of Southern policy. Then came the elder ADAMS. He was from Massachusetts. Opposite ideas shaped his policy. At the end of four years the people indignantly turned him and his counsellors out of power. Then came JEFFERSON, MADISON and MONROE, each eight years—all Southern men. Here we had thirty two years of Southern administration to four Northern. Then came the young ADAMS from the North. He was the great embodiment of those ideas which now control Lincoln's administration. At the end of four years he was turned out of power and JACKSON, a Southern man, came in for eight years. Then came VAN BUREN a Northern man for four years. Then HARRISON and TYLER, and POLK, which added eight years more of Southern control. Next TAYLOR and FILLMORE. FILLMORE was a Northern man it is true, but his administration was sustained by the South, and so was PIERCE's. These may be called Southern administrations, and so was BUCHANAN's—thus making sixty out of the seventy-two years of the Government's existence under the Constitution.

Truths do not change. Mr Stephen's facts have lost none of their force by reason of his apostacy. It is as true now as it was in December last, that this government has been virtually under the control of the South from its foundation up to the present time. And it is because the South has been pampered—because she has been treated like a spoilt child—that she now revolts against the paternal authority. Finding that she can no longer rule she is resolved to ruin. Finding that she must divide the sweets of empire she is determined to bring the empire to an end. Finding that she must yield the sceptre she is determined to break it. Finding that she can no longer be absolute mistress of the Government house-hold, she seizes the torch of the incendiary and sets the old homestead on fire.

And there are Northern men who applaud her crime and justify her madness! There are those in our own midst who are willing to assist her fell work, who are eager to extend her "aid and comfort" in her war against what Mr. Stephens called the best Government "on the face of the Earth!"

The In-coming Emigrants

We received the following communication too late in the afternoon for our last paper. We give it now with some explanations.

OREGON CITY, Aug 19 1861

Editor Oregonian

The secession papers are very industriously circulating the story that Stephen Coffin Esq. has been furnished with $25,000 by the government for the purpose of providing protection to emigrants in the East Hearing Mr Coffin intended doing what appeared to me should be done in Eastern Oregon I called upon him for his own gratification. But before relating the story I desire to again put forward the opportunity of nailing the lie.

SEXTON

At the last regular session of Congress an appropriation of $50,000 was made, on motion of Senator Baker for the protection of overland emigrants to this coast. This protection was to be given by a company of men under military organization, as an escort for the emigrants. This escort was to be met on this side of the mountains by supplies to be sent from this valley or beyond. Capt Maynadier commanded the escort. Mr Stephen Coffin of this city was informed while in Washington last spring that he would be employed to forward and deliver to the escort provisions, probably near Fort Hall. A month ago or more, Mr Coffin received a letter from Mr Maynadier Crawford an officer in the escort, urgently requesting Mr Coffin to meet his company at Fort Hall with supplies. Mr Coffin procured supplies and proceeded with them as far as the Dalles—purchased with his own means, and moved at his own expense—nothing received any or less from government. Mr Coffin on application to the military would obtain no escort for his supplies through the region known to be occupied by the hostile Snake Indians. Consequently he returned at the Dalles, doing what he desired with his own property, hoping in waiting for orders from Government. Some days ago he received information that orders would be sent to him, and he returned to this city, expecting to find them in the meantime he has sent for part his stock of provisions. He hopes to receive orders to enable him to make a requisition for troops to protect his train, at Fort Walla Walla — and in failure of which he will be compelled to hire an escort, and arm them as best he can.

Mr Coffin has no authority from Government to transport provisions to meet the escort of the emigrants. He has not, of course, received a dollar to pay the expenses.

One other great error seems to prevail—that the appropriation was made to furnish supplies for the emigrants. This was not the design of the appropriation, and cannot be used for that purpose. The appropriation, as already stated, was intended to furnish a safe protection to the emigrants coming to Oregon and Washington Territory. Where the fault is in this case, we are unable to state. If Capt Maynadier had the supervision of this whole matter, he has certainly committed a very grave mistake in not perfecting measures for securing supplies for this force at an earlier day than is now possible to obtain them from Bear Valley. We learn that Mr. Coffin has been ready and anxious to enter upon his duties for months.

BROWNSON ON THE REBEL LEADERS.—In the last number of Brownson's Quarterly the editor has an article on the present war, in which he says: "For 30 years or more the South have been taught to regard the North as their enemies, and made to believe that they could not live in peace with us. They have been taught that we of the Free States are mere money makers destitute of any high moral or religious principle, selfish calculating cold hearted, and, worse than all, mere cowards. These teachings have been bad, and have led them into grave mistakes. For those who have misled them, we have no excuse, no palliation to offer, not a word in extenuation of their offence to utter. They knew better, and have sinned against light and knowledge. For them we have no mercy; let them meet as they deserve the traitor's doom—not because they are Southern men or slaveholders, but because they are conspirators and rebels, bent on destroying the Government under which they were born, to which they owe all, under, and which with all its faults of administration, is the freest and best Government ever instituted by man, and which, from its foundation, has been, with that of Great Britain, the hope of the friends of liberty throughout the world. It is not against a despot or a tyrant, or a foreign domination that they have conspired, but against their own legitimate Government, whose only defect, if defect it have, is that it claims too little power for itself, and leaves too much freedom to the citizen. The American citizen who seeks to overthrow the American Government is not only a traitor, but a libertucide, a disfranchised monster, not fit to live or inhabit any part of this globe; he has no suitable place this side of hell."

BY TELEGRAPH!

ARRIVAL OF THE PONY.

We copy the following from the Yreka Journal of the 16th. We shall not be likely to have a regular mail Sunday evening.

NO DISPATCHES.—The Pony arrived on Friday last, but brought no letters other than private. We met with the agent of the First mail from the East, who consequently brought us no dispatches for the Associated Press. We presume however that nothing of importance has transpired since the last dispatch.

Daniel S Dickinson on the War

Some time ago an extract purporting to be from a speech delivered by Daniel S Dickinson on the subject of the war was published the correctness of which Mr Dickinson denies. It has since been variously commented upon by the papers, especially by those of the Secession stamp. Recently Mr. Dickinson addressed a letter to Amherst College Massachusetts an extract of which we give below, but which will not be likely to be copied by the Secession papers.

"Now are the times and the men to show the world the stuff we are made of. Let us manifest our devotion to the noble and sacred Union instituted for our security and blessing, by the most constant devotion to conduct, and the most strenuous efforts for success in war. Let the rebellion of traitors and rebels, goaded on from the thrones of fiction, and the cold and calculating politicians of Palatine wash their hands and proclaim their innocence, while their souls are stained with guilt and crime for urging it forward. Let the faithful and conscious of their integrity and strength in truth, endure to the end. The war will correct the devices of demoralization in public station and private life, the people above the dead level of incapacity and moral and intellectual debasement. It may scatter the pride of blooded hirelings who seek to serve their country that they may plunder, and betray it."

U S Sloop of War St Mary's.—Capt Mullaton, of South Carolina, who arrived in California on the last steamer has taken command of the U S. sloop of war St Mary's vice Capt W D Porter, who has been recalled in consequence of his supposed Secession proclivities. It appears that the authorship of a letter of rather a Secession cast, published in an Eastern paper, has been traced to him. Capt. Porter had always been considered in California a first rate Union man.

The Secretary of the Navy has given orders that none but native born LANDSMEN will be accepted hereafter for our ships of war.—Gov. Jos. Democrat.

This is very nearly equal to foreign domestics. Please give the documents.

The Richmond correspondent of the Charleston Courier, writing on the 17th ult. says—"Such is the scarcity of Northern intelligence, that 10 dollars and even 20 dollars are freely paid for a single Boston paper."

New Orleans must be a gloomy city just now. It is said provisions are scarce, poor people are starving, there are no cotton transactions, the negroes are sulky and the Union men restrained by the reign of terror. The only live individual there seems to be Pierre Soule.

The Missouri State Convention is progressing well, and probably embraces the deposition of Governor Jackson, Lieut. Gov Reynolds and Secretary of State Missee, and the vacancies in the Legislature. The election to fill these offices will be held in November of this year.

The Kanawha District in Virginia is clear of the rebels. Wise was taken with a running, helter skelter, and his baggage. The federals were still after him. He once said the Northerners could be frightened with bullets.

The persons murdered at Barlow's Gate, on the Cascade mountains, prove to be Mr Jarvis Briggs and his son Newton Briggs of Lane county. The murders were committed by Indians. These Indians and others, who have lately committed murders, are all likely to be taken, through the vigilance of Capt Whittlesey, and Messrs Logan and Dunnison.

Elizabeth Bogwell in San Francisco recovered in Court $1,500, from Benedict Spear for falsely charging her with stealing a silk dress.

O'Meara has started a secession paper in Jacksonville.

The Oregon Democrat thinks that it will cost money to preserve the Union and that it better be given up.

The Secretary of Washington Territory, Mr. J. L. S. Turnley, was received at Olympia by a national salute.

CITY.

The crop.—Robert Irwin and an Indian, two convicts who acted in the Penitentiary bakery, made their escape day before yesterday, about 5:30 P. M. They obtained a ranger with which they bored a piece out of the lower part of the door which leads from the kitchen into the yard, making an aperture of about thirteen inches square, through which they crawled. During their operations, they guarded against discovery by placing a lot of cooking utensils in front of the work. Irwin was sentenced for four years, and had served about twenty-two months of his time; the Indian was sentenced for life, for murder.

Severe Accident.—On yesterday, while several workmen were shingling a stable in process of erection for Mr. Knott, in the South part of the town, the roof fell in, and the walls fell part. Of two children of Mr. R. Ladd, who were in the building, one was slightly hurt and the other received no injury. Mr. Kirkendall had his wrist broken, and otherwise severely injured. Mr. Kinney received a severe cut on the face. Mr. G. Allen was slightly bruised. Several buildings are being erected in this city on the same plan, and may cause similar casualties.

Pardoned.—Francisco De Valarde and Chas. Roberts have been pardoned out of the penitentiary by his Excellency Governor Whitaker. The former had been sentenced from Wasco County for ten years for manslaughter, and had served about nine months of his time; Roberts' pardon is a mere restoration to citizenship, being a respite of three days of his sentence.

Now Est.—His Honor the Mayor called an extra session of the Common Council for Tuesday evening last, to take into consideration important matters for the welfare of the city; but when the appointed time arrived all the members but one three non est.

Movement of Troops.—A detachment of 340 U. S. troops, under command of Captain Black, left Fort Vancouver yesterday morning for the Cascades. Company "K," 9th Infantry, Capt. Van Voast commanding, now stationed at the Dalles, are also ordered to the same place, to protect the settlers from the threatened incursions of the Indians.

The Advertiser is not suited with the new Brigadier Generals, from which fact the people will be impressed with the opinion that the appointments are the best that can be made. The same authority suggests that Col. Wright should have been one of the new Brigadiers. There would have been great fitness in such an appointment, but it is a singular suggestion on the part of the Advertiser, when it is known that should Col. Wright lead a Brigade against the Secessionists, the interests, instincts and wishes of the editors would be in favor of his defeat. The Advertiser gives an additional list of its Secession friends who have deserted from the army.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer (democratic) in dealing with the Dayton secession paper, says: "The Dayton Express charges the republican administration with corruption—When we get a little farther from the Buchanan administration in point of time, an administration which the Democracy gave the country, we shall have a heart to cry corruption. We will wait a little."

The Nez Perce Mines.—The Yreka (Cal.) Journal says that James A. Glascock, lately foreman of that office, writes from Oro Fino that the mines are all that he expected to find them, and that they more than meet his expectation. He is an old miner, having been engaged in mining operations in various localities in this state. He expresses himself as confident of the richness of the mines in the Nez Perces country, and thinks they will prove extensive. He thinks but little will be done this present season, except prospecting, and does not advise any one to come there before next spring.

The traitors refuse to bury the bodies of the Zouaves, and say any one with red shirts or pants of Zouave cut, fares badly at their hands.

It is stated that cartridges found on the battle field at Bull's Run, had marbles instead of balls, and that some of the shell were filled with clay.

A lady was caught going South with revolvers tied to her garters. But one of Lincoln's officials found them. A contemporary calls him one of the "knights of the garter."

Hostetter's Celebrated Stomach Bitters—A specific for dyspepsia, diarrhœa, dysentery, general debility, chills and fever, liver complaint, bilious remittent fevers, and the pains and weaknesses which creep upon us in old age. For these ailments we quietly invited a trial and a verdict. The trial has come off, the verdict has been rendered, and the Bitters are to-day the most popular remedy, for the diseases they have been in existence in this or any other country. It lives and continues to thrive and increase in popularity with marvelous rapidity, simply because the world wants it, will have it, cannot do without it. The dyspeptic demands it as the only hope of the victims of diarrhœa or dysentery believes in it, the bilious sufferer dare not let one bottle run out before he gets another. Both sexes, all ages, all classes regard it as the most wonderful curative agent ever compounded. Hear the enormous demand. Sold everywhere by Druggists, Liquor Dealers, and Grocers.

The Medical and Surgical Institute of DR. L. J. CLAPKAY is already secured in a position which places it, as well as its proprietor, far above the assaults of envy and professional malice. In the schools of France, the highest prizes are often awarded to practitioners in this department of medical science, and they occupy, with others, an equally lofty position in the profession. Hence is an illustrious example, a shining light among the philosophical stars of this age in Europe, and Dr. Clapkay has fully equalled him in this country; as a proof of which, the Philadelphia College of Medicine complimented him with a Diploma, and the honorary ad eundem degree. Selecting this as his field of operation, although qualified as a graduate of the University of Pesth, and late Chief Surgeon of the Hungarian Revolutionary army, far more extended labors, Dr. L. J. Czapkay has bent his earnest attention to the cure of chronic and private diseases, in which he has become so great an expert, that he is now regarded as the LEADER in this branch of his profession throughout the United States, and his portrait and biographs are published as matter of interest to their readers in the most exclusive journals. The Doctor's offices are at his Medical and Surgical Institute, on Sacramento street, corner of Leidesdorff, nearly opposite the buildings of the Pacific Mail Steamship Company, San Francisco. We ask particular attention of our readers to the sworn certificates of remarkable cures, in another column of this paper. Persons not wishing to lose time in corresponding, please enclose $10 in their letters, and they will get immediate attention to their cases. Address L. J. CZAPKAY, M. CAUGHT.—A. C. Appler, the rabid secession editor of the Hannibal News was arrested recently, and taken by Major Hays to camp When found, he was concealed between two beds. He begged to be released on taking the oath of allegiance, but Major Hunt preferred to feed him on pork and beans and make him work awhile for Uncle Sam.

Commercial and Financial.

The Commercial editor of the Boston Post says that the business of the Eastern cities is decidedly improving and failures in number and importance decreasing.

The New York Express says—

"Merchants doing business with the West do not all complain of failure in collections. On the other hand the large shipments of grain, when sold, go to pay old debts, to a great degree. The alarm recently started in relation to the loss of a market for our grain crops, by reason of the fine appearance of the English grain crops, is premature. The breadth of land planted in England and in France, is notoriously deficient, and, with a full crop, there will, as usual remain a very large amount of bread stuffs to be bought and of the United States, as the most accessible and cheap market. October is soon enough to be frightened about the English demand."

Money could be had abundantly in the Eastern cities, on first class paper.

The city of St Louis is in default for her July interest. The Illinois State loan has been withdrawn as all the money she requires can be obtained at home at 90 cts.

There was no change in the wheat market in San Francisco on the 13th, but an advance was expected.
